THE BLACKLIST AND BOYCOTT

Bills Repealing the Present Law Passed Second Reading in Both Houses Rawalt's Bill.

Special to the Gazette

Denver Feb 1—The legislature did not tire itself with work today The senate held a three hours session and adjourned until Monday morning.

The house accomplished very little during the morning but in the afternoon it passed the Burwell anti-treating bill on the second reading by a vote of 41 to 18 The house also rejected a report of the special committee which was appointed to ascertain if some means could not be adopted whereby the members could hear more distinctly Both bodies passed on second reading similar bills repealing the present laws against blacklisting and boycotting After having drawn $12 000 as their salary for the past two weeks both houses adjourned until next Monday morning

HOUSE SESSION

Representative Rawalt s bill providing for the payment of the ordinary and contingent expenses of the executive legislative and judicial departments which was re committed for correction was discussed and adopted A bill introduced by Mr. Pitschke repealing the present law against boycotting and blacklisting was considered and adopted It was shown that the present law was a dead letter so far as its being in force is concerned House bill No of by Mr Neeley regulating the withdrawal of water from reservoirs was recommitted for amendment

The next bill on the calendar was H B No by Mr Burwell having for its object the prevention of treating in [illegible] ment for 10 days in the county jail or both for violation thereof The funds raised are kept by the county treasurer, who will at the Christmas time of use the same to be expended in making glad the children and the poor of the county

Mr. Burwell's Eloquence

[illegible] with one of the best speeches yet on the floor of the house In a cool calm and considerate manner he described the practice of treating and its bad results He seemed to throw his entire soul into his speech He declared that 75 per cent of the drunkards of the state were made such by the system of treating Mr Burwell's remarks were received with enthusiastic applause by both the members of the house and the crowds in the gallery

Mr Sprague said he would vote for the bill and support it to his utmost extent but he was fearful lest it could not be enforced Messrs Dickerson and Riley both spoke in favor of the bill Adams of Dolores did not want to announce more moral laws when so many now on the statute books are not enforced He said It is an actual fact that although our statute books are filled with moral laws I got a drink in Denver last Sunday without any trouble Manion of Boulder declared that sentiment was the factor which governed the enforcement of law and if the sentiment of a community demands that the law be enforced it will be enforced

Montgomery's Support

Montgomery said he voted against the bill two years ago but would support it today He felt that America was behind the rest of the nations of the world in that treating in saloons is permitted He believes that the law will enable men to say no when asked to take a drink because it would be against the law Mr Montgomery was subjected to a number of questions regarding his late speakership campaign In answer he acknowledged that mistakes had been made but that this would prevent it occurring in the future Mr Hammond thought that if the bill did become a law every member of the assembly would violate it within the next 30 days Mr Sprague moved to amend the bill so as to include cigarettes Mr Pitschke seconded the amendment Mr Burwell felt that the amendment would kill his bill Mr Pitschke in a spirited speech said he would not support the bill unless the amendment was adopted Mr Neeley felt that the amendment was proposed for the purpose of defeating the measure Mr Sprague resented the accusation in the strongest terms He said he had introduced an anti-cigarette bill in good faith and that he intended to amend every bill that he possibly could a [illegible] until an anti cigarette law was adopted He offered to withdraw the amendment on [illegible] of the opposition it might cause to the bill but Mr Pitschke would not withdraw his second The amendment was lost by a vote of 23 to 2 The bill was then adopted After the committee had arisen Mr Garcia demanded the roll call on the adoption of the report He had for his purpose the causing of the members to go on record either for or against the bill The roll call resulted Ayes 41 nays 18

Senate bill No 90 by Senator Moore repealing an act to prevent blacklisting and boycotting was next considered It was explained that both bills were dead letters The bill was ordered to third reading

Senate bill No 15 enabling mining companies to dissolve upon the sale of mines and mining claims brought forth much discussion Senator Stewart opposed the bill He said it should have been entitled A bill to steal the interest of the minority stockholders Senator Whitford was fearful lest something was concealed in the bill Senator Seldomridge wanted it to go over a day or two in order that all would have time to study it After a few more speeches were made the bill was killed

At this point Senator Parks offered an amendment to the boycotting bill so that it would prevent blacklisting He explained that the bill did not repeal the blacklisting law of 1887 The amendment was lost

A small pamphlet was found on the desks of all the members this morning purporting to be a copy of the Montgomery revenue bill In the body of the bill was a number of criticisms The [illegible] being at a loss to know where the pamphlets came from the following committee was appointed to investigate the matter Senators Seldomridge Ammons and Taylor

NORTHERN STRIKE SEEMS LIKELY TO CONTINUE

Special to the Gazette

Denver Feb 1—The coal strike situation remains unchanged The conference between the operators and the miners which was called yesterday morning in the labor commissioner's office for the purpose of reaching an agreement adjourned sine die at 1 30 today with nothing accomplished It has been clearly ascertained however that the Northern Coal and Coke company and probably some of the other operators will make a determined fight against the recognition of the United Mine Workers of America

At the close of the conference last night there seemed to be a prevailing opinion that an agreement would be reached at this morning s session but such was not to be the case As the members of the conference emerged from the room it could be seen that a row had been in progress In fact it continued between Attorney Bartels for the Northern Coal company and Organizer Gehr of the Miners union As they were passing through the state house corridors they continued to quarrel with one another the principal sentence used by both being You'll see who'll win

The following are the demands made by the miners First, Recognition of committees from and of the organization of the United Mine Workers of America second That except in cases of emergency not more than 8 hours shall be worked in one day by any mine worker third That the prices of mining shall [illegible] pounds and all day labor to be paid the same wages per day as those prevailing during the year 1900 fourth That employes in and around mines shall be paid every second Saturday the employers having the privilege of holding one weeks wages in order to facilitate bookkeeping fifth [illegible] weighmen shall be allowed at all mines said check weighman to have the privilege of checking off the wages of the miners a sufficient amount to pay check weighman s wages also to check off all dues and assessments placed on miners and mine workers and collected through the respective companies for which we are working

The first and [illegible] clauses were accepted by a majority of the operators present [illegible] is an organization Variation in the wages paid at the different camps was another barrier against a settlement The report that the conference has failed to reach an agreement [illegible] general [illegible] throughout the [illegible] sections of the city The present cold weather has brought the matter before the public in a more [illegible] manner than ever before

During the evening Mr Duncan representing the national organization of the United Mine Workers and Mr [illegible] president for this district had personal conferences with a number of the independent operators and secured the signatures of five to the agreement submitted by the strikers They will go to Louisville Erie and other points in the northern district for the purpose of inducing other operators to sign if possible Those who signed the agreement this evening were the New Colorado Coal company by Thomas F Bassett president Fox and Patterson The Equitable Coal M & M Co by H T Hamilton secretary and treasurer Thomas Vaughn, and the Sunnyside Coal company The output of these [illegible]

The agreement signed is to only stand pending a general settlement in the district It provides for the recognition of the United Mine Workers organization [illegible] 10 cents per ton for lump coal [illegible] for run of mine check weighmen whose wages as well as all dues and fines of the union are to be held out of the miners wages in the offices of the operators

Romantic Episode in Kentucky

Obviously the great American novel has [illegible] because the novelist has been unable to decide as to [illegible] If he chooses the prosaic environment of New England and writes in the realistic manner of a pallid problem in ethics how can his work represent the weird romanticism of Kentucky?

To take a concrete case from the daily newspapers Mr White of the Blue Grass state conceived a tender passion for Miss Shotwel The young lady s father objected whereupon Mr White shot him several times—for proper emphasis The wooer was locked in a store Some oral but protesting friends of the elder Shotwell wrecked the store with dynamite killing and wounding some quite innocent persons in genuine Kentucky style As the injured began to emerge and rescuing parties appeared concealed riflemen fired at both rescued and injured lest [illegible] unwilling that a really dramatic climax should fail for lack of enough victims [illegible] is uncertain what further action will be taken by Shotwell s friends There is always this uncertainty so long as any of either faction are left alive

Set amid New England scenery this would be too grotesque for serious consideration but in view of the [illegible] it comes quite probable and almost a matter of course in that state How shall the great American novel be written —(Chicago News

STRANGE SCENES OF ROYAL MOURNING

NAVY PAGEANT

Body of Queen Victoria Conveyed From Cowes to Portsmouth.

PROCESSION FROM OSBORNE

King of England, the Emperor of Germany, the Queen and Princesses of England Walked Behind Bier.

Cowes Feb 1 With grand yet mournful display of naval pomp and power, the body of Queen Victoria was borne this afternoon from its quiet resting place in Osborne to Portsmouth, the heart of England s navy Not since Admiral Cervera s ships lit up the Cuban coast with their self-consuming fires has anything been seen which in tragic splendor approached the naval spectacle of today

The half-hundred red fighting ships that this afternoon fired their broadsides and minute guns were inferior in strength to the force gathered in the same waters for the jubilee celebration, but the lack of formidableness was fully atoned for by the solemnity of this fleet in mourning

Over the still waters between the roll of the six pounders came strains of Chopin's and Beethoven s funeral marches The crews accustomed to cheer with the heartiness which belongs only to jackies stood silently along the decks and the flags which usually float defiantly in the breeze drooped half-way down the halyards

The most powerful fleet England could gather on short notice lay inert and silent save for the mournful strains of the bands and the woeful sound of guns that betokened neither peace nor war, but death

Inert and Silent.

[illegible] the huge though cumbersome Camperdown the Rodney and the Ben Bow, on through the line of British battleships all as powerful on paper as the Oregon or Kentucky still on till Japan s Hatsuse the biggest warship in the world was left astern and the German Baden was beam to beam with Vice Admiral Sir Henry Holdsworth Rawson [illegible] of the channel squadron the naval procession slowly steamed Ahead were eight destroyers, and seldom have these speedy craft drawn their long black hulls so sluggishly through the water

Steaming leisurely after them was the royal yacht Alberta half screened by the awning on the poop the royal coffin placed on a crimson dais the curtains of which were drawn back and leaving free to view the magnificent casket and robes Sometimes abeam sometimes ahead was the Trinity house yacht Irene watching the course while in the wake of the coffin came the royal yacht Victoria and Alberta, with King Edward and Queen Alexandra and the English royal family the royal yacht Osborne with other royal personages the imperial yacht Hohenzollern with Emperor William the Duke and Duchess of Conneaught and others the admiralty yacht Enchantress and a Trinity house yacht with officials on board

The main squadron of battleships and cruisers were moored two and a half cables apart in one line extending from Cowes to Spithead

The Channel Fleet

The channel fleet under the command of Vice Admiral Sir Henry Holdsworth Rawson formed the eastern portion and the reserve fleet under Rear Admiral Sir Henry Noel formed the western portion

The foreign war vessels were moored southwest of the British ships in the [illegible] them were moored eight British gunboats the Antelope, Gleaner Skipjack, Leda Rattlesnake Alert, Circe and Speedwell

After leaving Trinity pier the Alberta, with her attendant escort steamed along the deep channel between the coast of the Isle of Wight and the single line of battleships and cruisers

The Main Line.

The main line was as follows beginning at Cowes

The Alexandra Camperdown Rodney, Ben Bow Collingwood Colossus Sans Pareil Nile Howe Melampus Severn Galatea Bellona Pactolus Pelorus Diana Conqueror Arrogant Minerva Niobe [illegible] Trafalgar [illegible] Jupiter Hannibal Mars Prince George and Majestic

Minute guns were fired by all the ships in the Solent and at Cowes commencing when the Alberta left the pier Each ship ceased firing immediately after the tail of the procession had passed her

After the procession had passed the Majestic the forts and ships in Portsmouth harbor commenced firing minute guns and continued firing until the Alberta was alongside the wharf

No standards were displayed and ensigns and union jacks were at half mast.

The bands played the funeral marches of Chopin and Beethoven only No national anthem was played

On the approach of the procession the ships were manned and the guards and bands were paraded

The officers were in full dress and the men wore No 1 rig and straw hats The guards presented arms as the Alberta passed each ship and then rested on their arms reversed until the procession had passed

A detachment of marines and the admiral s band were on board Nelson s flagship the Victory in Portsmouth harbor

All the sea [illegible] and dock yards were [illegible] Whale Island was manned by boys from the training ship St Vincent and from the gunnery ship Excellent

When the Majestic was left astern Alberta was moored for the night. [illegible] the body will be taken ashore at Portsmouth and thence conveyed To London and Windsor for the last tributes to the queen

Ceremony at Cowes

The ceremony consisting in bringing the coffin from Osborne house to the pier at Cowes was scarcely less interesting than the naval function. At noon the gorgeous trappings of the Chapelle Ardente were distributed Over the coffin was thrown the coronation robe worn by the girl queen On this was placed the royal regalia wand scepter and crown which was scarcely ever used by the queen in her lifetime Dummy regalia will be buried with her at Frogmore

Cowes was astir at dawn and quickly became alive with visitors Every stand window and roof whence the procession could be viewed was rapidly filled up, while the portion of the route open to spectators was soon impassable Long before the hour for the funeral the hilly York avenue, leading from Osborne was a picturesque sight

From the castle moat to the pier troops stood with elbows touching Behind them were thousands of men women and children The road was lined with poles with shields of black and silver upon them bearing the royal monogram or surrounded with flags Stands for spectators dotted the route. Innumerable cameras were posted at advantageous spots Hawkers were busy disposing of black-bordered "In Memoria cards and other souvenirs Equerries aides de camp mounted grooms and messengers dashed hither and thither seeing that everything was inreadiness The guard around Osborne house was most rigid and beyond the police a long thin line of red merged into the green and brown woods, clustering around the royal residence The queen s guard was drawn up in double rank before the queen s entrance with heads bowed over their arms as in death chamber

The Start From Osborne House

At 1 30 p m the bars of the main door of Osborne house creaked and the [illegible] Victoria and Alberta then doffed their hats and entered King Edward came from a side entrance accompanied by Emperor William of Germany They both wore admiral's uniforms

The Grenadiers momentarily raised their heads and came to the salute which the king returned and the men again became mute figures

Then through the glass door could be seen the coffin coming carried by the sailors who but a few moments previous had entered It was preceded by pipers and was covered with the royal robes and regalia and accompanied on either side by equerries

Immediately behind the king on his right the emperor of Germany took his place The king s head was bowed The emperor was erect, his face expressionless Then followed the royal princes A few seconds later Queen Alexandra emerged and eight royal princesses all afoot and dressed in the simplest black their faces entirely veiled with crepe Several of the party and especially Princess Beatrice were sobbing bitterly

In striking contrast with the black-robed women followed the heads of the royal household in gorgeous uniforms The coffin was placed upon the gun carriage The pipers commenced their dirge

The procession marched slowly down the winding cedar path until the [illegible] was reached where the glittering military escort was met the massed bands breaking out with the dead march and the cortege pursuing its sluggish way in the midst of intense silence, save the music of the bands

As the khaki-colored gun carriage followed by the king with the emperor of Germany and the Duke of Connaught on his right and left passed down the hill all hats were doffed

Borne by Sailors.

At 1 45 p. m. sailors from the Victoria and Albert raised the precious burden and bore it from the house This duty was to have fallen to the Highlanders but at the rehearsal they were so awkward that it was decided that the sailors should perform the task Outside the royal residence Grenadier guards were drawn up on a brilliant line With a sharp click they presented arms for the last time in honor of their dead queen The pipers lead the procession making the woods ring with a weird refrain Behind them came the royal family As the [illegible] the military portion of the parade stood ready, a glittering medley of uniforms Down hill the procession slowly wound its way in the following order

Mounted grooms—the deputy assistant adjutant general of the southern district a detachment of the Hampshire Carbineers the lieutenant governor of the Isle of Wight and staff of the southern district the staff of the commander-in chief at Portsmouth the general commanding the southern district the naval commander in-chief massed bands and drums of the royal marine artillery and of the royal marine light infantry who played a funeral march as they passed out of the queen s gate The queen s Highlanders the queen's pipers the gun carriage drawn by eight horses and preceded and followed by her late majesty's equerries and aides-de camp escorted by the queen's company of grenadier guards with the coffin King Edward [illegible] the Duke of Connaught the crown prince of Germany Prince Henry of Prussia Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein the Duke of Saxe Coburg and Gotha Prince Battenberg Queen Alexandra the Duchess of York, the Duchess of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, Princess Louise (Duchess of Argyll) Princess Beatrice (Princess Henry of Battenberg), the Duchess of Connaught, the Duchess of Albany, Princess Victoria of Wales Princess Charles of Denmark her late majesty s ladies in waiting her late majesty's household the household of the king the household of the queen the household of Emperor William the household of the royal family military officers eight abreast the royal servants and tenants

The Royal Mourners

The pathos of the thoughts inspired lost nothing by scrutiny of the king [illegible] and bore the marks of grief But in all that assemblage there will ever stand out one face that of the German emperor Its tanned almost olive contours were turned fiercely toward the sun and his moustache brushed upper lip enhanced the firmness of his chin It was apparent that the emperor was undergoing a mental strain for his face twitched nervously

Every inch a king was the manner in which the German emperor was referred to

Almost behind his majesty was young Duke Arthur of Connaught, perfect of figure and with a handsome face, quivering mouth and nervous movements

Hardly was there time to recognize the individuality of these personages including the tawny bearded Prince Henry of Russia and the clean cut face of the Duke of Conneaught before the most truly pathetic sight of the day came in view It was a simple little band in black, for all the world like the sisters of some religious order mourning humbly for one of their number who had passed away None was distinguishable from the others They all wore plain black dresses with long crepe veils, and they followed meekly and with downcast heads Yet the first was the queen of England and with her was the woman who if she lives will also hold the proud title and behind them walked the woman to whom every knee in England however noble is bowed in courtesy

Immediately behind the queen and the princesses came the heads of the household in strange gaudy uniform seldom seen in public

A Remarkable Spectacle

There have been more magnificent pageants than the escorting of the body of Queen Victoria from the house where she died to the royal yacht but never has there been witnessed in recent world history a procession more remarkable in combination of pomp and splendor with grief and humility.

Russell forced McCormick into his own corner and swung to McCormick s head with his right. The latter doubled up and went down and out. The blow did not seem to have much force and McCormick only waited for the ten count, when he got up and left the ring without assistance. The spectators were disgusted

A Suit to Recover 63,000 Shares of King Gold Stock.

OTHER CASES IN THE COURT

Very Sudden Death From Pneumonia—Bold Robbery of a Saloon—Knowlton's Oil Land.

Cripple Creek Bureau
Colorado Springs Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Feb. 1.—Lawrence A. Earle commenced suit in the district court today to recover 63,000 shares of King Gold mining stock from J. A. Howze. The plaintiff alleges that on July 16, 1900, he borrowed $556.56 from Howze and gave him 113,000 shares of stock in the King Gold M. company as security. There was an agreement, it is alleged, that Howze was not to dispose of the stock. Earle states that at that time his stock was worth $1,800 and has now greatly appreciated in value. He still owes Howze $531.92 with interest, and Howze has returned to him only 50,000 shares of his stock. He believes that Howze has disposed of the balance and asks a decree from the court to compel the defendant to turn over to him the balance, namely 63,000 shares. If the stock has been sold he asks judgment [illegible] of the same. The balance of the debt, which he states Howze has refused to accept, he wished deducted from the judgment.

The Theresa Leasing Co. is the defendant in an action brought today in the district court by John Schumacher. A temporary writ of injunction is applied for, to be made permanent on final hearing. The injunction is asked for to prevent the Theresa Leasing company from interfering with the plaintiff in the operation of his sub-lease on the Theresa claim. The complaint alleges that the plaintiff was granted an oral sub-lease on 100 feet of the claim on Sept. 4, 1900. The lease was to have been delivered later in writing. After working for three months on the property Schumacher alleges that he opened up a fine body of ore which the defendant company proceeded to appropriate and ousted Schumacher from his lease. Schumacher asks for damages in the sum of $5,000 and also applies for a court order requiring the Theresa company to turn over his sub-lease in writing, good for two years from Sept. 4, 1900.

She sues for the amount of the bond and for breach of contract.

WILL SEND $2.50 FREE

Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., the Celebrated Specialist, Will Send a Course of His New Special Treatment Free.

When an experienced physician offers to give away $40,000 worth of a New Treatment for diseases of the heart, nerves, stomach or dropsy, it is conclusive evidence that he has great faith in it. And when hundreds of prominent men and women freely testify to his unusual skill and the superiority of his New Special Treatment his liberality is certainly worthy of serious consideration.

That Dr. Miles is one of the world's most successful physicians is proven by hundreds of testimonials from well-known people. One patient cured after failure of eleven Grand Rapids physicians, two after being given up by six and seven Chicago physicians, another after nine of the leading doctors in New York City, Philadelphia and Chicago failed.

W. W. Anderson, Pleasant Hill, Neb., writes, "I was entirely cured after I had tried everything without benefit. The Special Treatment worked like magic." Mrs. C. W. Phelps, Stratton, Neb., says, "When I commenced taking Special Treatment I was in an almost helpless condition from nervous prostration. Dr. Miles did so much for me that I am now able to attend to business."

The eminent Rev. W. Bell, D. D., of Dayton, Ohio, General Secretary of Foreign Missions, writes editorially in The State Sunday School Union: "We desire to state that from personal acquaintance we know Dr. Miles to be a most skillful specialist, a man who has spared neither time nor money to keep himself abreast of the great advancement of medical science."

A thousand references to, and testimonials from, Bishops, Clergymen, Bankers, Farmers and their wives will be sent free on request.

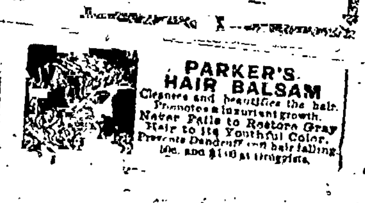

This new system of special treatment is thoroughly scientific and immeasurably superior to the ordinary methods.

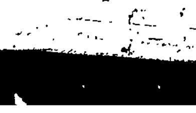

As all afflicted readers may have $2.50 worth of treatment especially prepared for their case, free, with full directions, we would advise them to send for it at once. Address Dr. Franklin Miles, 201 to 209 State St., Chicago. Mention this paper.

NEWS AND NOTES OF MANITOU

The cold weather of the past few days has made Manitou somewhat duller than it has been for some time. Up to a few days ago while the good weather lasted many visitors came to the city and it seemed almost like summer again. The season, however, is not far off and there are already preparations being made by the proprietors of hotels and cottages to accommodate the large number of people that are expected the coming summer.

The name of the Manitou Mineral Water company has been changed and it will in the future go under the name of "The Manitou Mineral Springs company." Mr. W. H. Moreland, manager of the company, has been in Denver for the past few days on business.

Rudy Schuler has been visiting friends in the capital city for the past week. He returned to Manitou last night.

A very pleasant surprise was given Mr. Hal Ross and his bride at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Grafton one night this week. Those present passed the evening in a social good time and voted their hosts the best of entertainers. Mr. and Mrs. Ross have recently returned from their wedding trip, having been married in this city last week. Mrs. Ross was formerly employed in the Manitou post-office.

Mr. H. H. Grafton, G. H. Renn and Mr. H. S. Francisco have been in Pueblo the past week, having been summoned to that city as witnesses in the case of the ... Manitou and ... Grafton is still in Pueblo although Mr. Renn and Mr. Francisco have returned.

... from this city to Colorado Springs, where they will make their home in the future. They have been residents of this city for the past eight years and are very well known.

Mr. J. G. Helstand, proprietor of the Iron springs pavilion, is putting in a new case of minerals to take the place of the collection he sold to the high school in Warren, Pa., last September. While the new collection will not equal the old one it will be very fine, and one not versed in mineralogy will not be able to detect the difference.

A number of Manitou people attended the play in Colorado Springs last Wednesday night and were very much pleased with the "Prisoner of Zenda."

Mrs. Jones, who has been occupying the Wright cottage for some time, left Thursday for Birmingham, Alabama, her home.

Next Wednesday night the ladies of the St. Agnes guild of the Episcopal church will give an oyster supper at the Ebinger cafe. The public is cordially invited.

There will be a dance at the Grand View hotel next Thursday night, given by the young men of Manitou. A number of invitations have been issued and a good time is expected.

"Steeple Bob."

The second in a series on "Careers of Danger and Daring" is explained by Cleveland Moffat in the February St. Nicholas in an article called "The Steeple-Climber." It was a tall man dressed entirely in white, who appeared day after day swinging on a little seat far up the side of this or that church steeple, or right at the top, hugging the gold cross or weather-vane, or, higher still, working his way with a queer, kicking, hitching movement up various hundred-foot flagpoles that rise from the heaven-challenging office buildings down near Wall street. At these perilous altitudes he would hang for hours, shifting his ropes occasionally, raising his swing or lowering it, and doing anything that his sidewalk audience could see very well or clearly understand. Yet thousands watched him with fascination, and a kodak army descended upon neighboring housetops, and newspapers followed the movements of "Steeple Bob" in thrilling chronicle.

That is what he was called in large black letters at the heads of columns—"Steeple Bob," but I came to know him at his modest quarters on Lexington avenue, where he was plain Mr. Merrill, a serious-mannered and an unpretentious young man, very fond of his wife and his dog, very fond of spending evenings over books of adventure, and quite indifferent to his daytime notoriety. I call him a young man, yet in years of service, not in age he is the oldest steeple-climber in the business, ever since his teacher, "Steeple Charlie," fell from his swing some years ago in New Bedford, Connecticut, and died the steeple-climber's death.

I often saw books of the sea on Merrill's table, and accounts of whaling voyages; and he told me one evening (while through an open door came the snores of his weary partner) about his own adventurous boyhood, with three years' cruise in Uncle Sam's navy on the school-ships "Minnesota" and "Yantic"; then shipped at the age of 17 and two years of whale fishing in the North sea. Quite ideal training this for a steeple-climber; he learned to handle ropes and make them fast so they would stay fast. He learned to climb and keep his head at the top of a swaying masthead; he learned to bear exposure as men must who are washed on deck every morning with a hose, and stand for inspection, winter and summer, bare to the waist. And he gained strength of arm and back swinging at the oar while whale-lines strained on the sunk harpoon; and patience in long stern chases; and nerve when some stricken monster lashed the waters in ... and the boat danced on a ...

Pastoral Calls.

Yet, in the world of affairs, great stress is laid upon the social instinct, says the Atlantic for February. A very indifferent preacher may build up a strong congregation through friendly visitations. A woman, through her quick intuition, her tact and native instincts, recognizes the social needs of the parish, quickening and reinforcing the slower methods of the masculine mind. "Where shall I call today?" is a frequent question. The wise wife is ready with a carefully selected list, and the battle is half fought. At first I made calls with my husband. I soon observed that our people always preferred to talk with the minister. So I learned to bid him godspeed without resentment or self deprecation. Often there are perplexities, doubts, sorrows, and even joys, which can be better expressed to him in confidence. When I call alone I am received with undivided cordiality. The minister's wife has personal interest in each member of the congregation, adapting herself to their various needs and helping each to their best. The more courage, the more sympathy, the more wisdom, the more spiritual illumination, the greater her ministry.

HOLE IN THE LUNGS

There are thousands of men and women, as well as ever with holes in their lungs: consumption stopped.

Consumption stopped is consumption cured. What does it?

Some change in the way of life and Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil.

With the emulsion, give some attention to circumstances; change from a dark damp close room to a sunny dry airy one; from city to country; from hard to an easy life; indoors to out.

A hole in the lungs once healed is no worse than a too-tight waist or waistcoat.

Take the emulsion, and give it a chance to heal the wound.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

The Helping Hand In London.

The final installment of Sir Walter Besant's East London papers appears in the February Century.

Let me repeat, he writes, that East London does not consist of slums. It is, above all, a city of quiet industry. There is no more industrious city in the world, for it contains ten square miles entirely occupied by an orderly population. There are long miles—hundreds of miles—of streets where the houses are clean and the lives are clean. Here and there, dotted about where circumstances and conditions have caused their growth, are found the slums. They used to be plague-spots, and in a sense they are so still; but of late years they are much improved. To find the real slum, the foul, indescribable pigsty, one must not look for it in East London. It lingers, here and there, on the south of the Thames. Any of the medical students of Guy's hospital, who have to attend the sick in the courts of Southwark, will lead you readily to such a slum; but in East London itself I should find it difficult to take you to places such as I remember, twenty years ago, to have looked into shuddering. Therefore, if you read novels of the day describing things brutal and horrible beyond endurance, you should regard these descriptions with suspicion. If they are true, they belong to the past, and exist no longer save in rare and very exceptional cases, and then against the voice of public opinion in their quarter. There is enough of misery and drunkenness still left among us to need no exaggeration, and one could fill these pages with truly lamentable histories. The tenements where the "casuals" herd together are full of ... the people are everywhere suffering from the sins of their fathers, from the first even to the fourth generation. If that were all there would be hope. Alas! they are also busy in manufacturing material for more retribution for the generations yet to follow. Terrible has been their own inheritance; terrible will be the inheritance of their children. But ... these people are now working without rest, without haste, whole companies, whole armies, organized to snatch, if they can, some of the children out of the dreadful slough. They rescue many, but more are born; we keep the ranks of victims from being too crowded, but new recruits pour in every day. And so, I believe, it always must be. The poor are always with us.

A Humorist to the Rescue.

The incident of the successful prosecution by "Mark Twain" of an overcharging cab driver has been shown by subsequent events in which the distinguished humorist took part, to be no joke at all, says the editor of the Century. Those who know something of Mr. Clemens's career know that the "kick," in this case, was a kick on principle; and the newspapers were not slow to draw the moral that the temper shown in this action on the part of individual citizens in our various badly governed communities—especially in the city of New York—would mean the beginning of a new era of decency.

It was not many days after the cab driver incident that "Mark Twain," speaking after dinner at the St. Nicholas society, but in no "after dinner" mood, praised, with a solemn face, the people of New York for their patriotism, as exemplified in the present excellent city government—which government, by the way, is a stench in the nostrils of civilization.

It looks as if a humorist had come to the rescue in one city of the republic, at least. It may be that his unescapable sarcasm will not only plague the enemy in the pending fight in New York, but will stir up the good citizen as he dreadfully needs to be stirred.

It is a promising sign of the present awakening in the metropolis that the two men at the moment most active in the attack on the bad local government (though in different ways and from different points of view) are that good citizen Bishop Potter and that excellent critic of public morals, "Mak Twain." It would seem that the common enemy has after him, the man who prays and the man who jokes—and while he evidently regards the combination as dangerous, it is difficult to tell which he fears the more.

Dr. Ellison's Sulphur Cough Cure

This remedy has long been used by the doctor in his practice for the cough incident to croup, diphtheria, coughs, colds, hoarseness, loss of voice, sore throat, whooping cough, influenza, etc. It will not dry up a cough or cold, but aids nature in throwing off the poisonous mucus produced from diseased lungs or a cold, heals the membrane and restores nature to a healthy condition. It is prompt in its action and absolutely harmless. There is no morphine, opium, ipecac or injurious drug in its composition. In croup, whooping cough and diphtheria, it liquifies the tough, tenacious mucus and aids its expulsion from the system. Price, 50 cents a bottle at the office, 24 North Tejon (over Craigue's grocery store.)

Amusements

"OLD JED PROUTY" TONIGHT.

"Old Jed Prouty," the best of rural dramas, and without doubt the best beloved by theater-goers throughout this broad land, will be seen at the opera house this evening. No play of New England life has yet managed to capture the hearts of city and country folk alike, so effectually. Perhaps it is in the name so reminding of some spot dear to every one, surrounded by happy young faces, and warm hearted, snowy haired friends, with whom they have strolled through life, and hope to spend their last days. Perhaps one also remembers how a great trouble threatened to send grandfather and grandmother broken hearted to their graves, and how the silver lining shone through the clouds before night. All have seen human griefs and pleasures. "Old Jed Prouty's" pictures that bring ... laughter ... to laugh at the first is an excuse to mourn or rejoice with the second. The story of "Old Jed Prouty" is a delightful picture of rural simplicity, and the characters are lined with the striking acuteness of a silhouette. "Old Jed Prouty" will always rank among the great plays of the American stage, even after it has ceased to be presented, and lingers only in memory. What it successfully purports to be, is a character study, with plenty of light and of shade, intrigue is wanting, but in its place is an exquisite representation of honest people and honest motives.

"Old Jed Prouty" is known to almost every theater-goer, as a simple tale of honest people; their everyday life is told in simple language. The American public, quick to recognize the better elements of nature, ... on the stage or in private life, take kindly to "Old Jed" even through all his escapades.

COLLAMARINI IN "CARMEN."

The engagement at the Opera house next Thursday evening of Signorina Collamarini, the famous prima donna contralto, Russo the eminent tenor, and Alessandroni the noted baritone in conjunction with the Boston Lyric Opera company was certainly an achievement that puts in the shade anything heretofore attempted by the renowned impressario, Col. W. A. Thompson. The cost must have been tremendous. For the salary of Collamarini alone must run into the hundreds for each performance, while Russo and Alessandroni cut no small figure in the treasury statements on salary day, and then there are 51 other artists to be looked after from this same bank account. Col. Thompson deserves the heartiest support in return for his enterprise in securing such splendid talent for his organization.

KING RASTUS.

The man who organized "King Rastus," which comes to the Opera house next Monday, knew what he was about. From New York to San Francisco theatrical managers and the amusement loving public have nothing but words of praise for him. He has concentrated in one performance all the cream of concert and colored vaudeville talent. ... continuous two and one-half hours' delight. There is rag-time music, the quintessence of cake-walking, the soul charm of the southern plantation melodies, the utter ludicrousness of innate negro humor, beautiful costumes, beautiful ... forms, special scenery and a presentation, without pretention, superior to any colored organization in America today.

SOUSA'S EIGHTEENTH SEMI-ANNUAL TOUR.

Sousa is on a tour of the continent again, with his band and soloists, and will be here in concert at the Opera house Tuesday afternoon only. Just before starting out he gave a series of concerts in Greater New York, both at the Metropolitan opera-house, Carnegie hall, over in Brooklyn, etc., and in every case to an immense audience and even then the public did not seem to have enough. A New York paper said: "Once more Sousa, in concert, three of 'em, before he goes away to play for the country, from Brooklyn bridge to Golden Gate, and those will be the last of Sousa here for many moons. Now that Sousa has succeeded in taking all Europe in tow and putting in his list, Paris along with New York, Stuttgart with Fond du Lac, Dresden with Denver and Leipzig with Los Angeles, all on one string, though separated by very deep and wide salt water, he and his organization have become more of a New York institution than ever, and there are those who will regret to see him take time to go anywhere else to play his dashing things of devious tempos and temperaments. Nevertheless, one of the penalties of becoming great and cosmopolitan is that one has to meet the obligations devolving upon stellar position, as Sousa finds. He has won his goal and must put up with the consequences."

The Lackawanna railroad on Feb. 1 is to open a New England freight agency in the Old State House, 210 Washington street, Boston, occupying a part of the ground floor space in the passenger office of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Co. The situation is an admirable one, located in what is destined to be the center of the freight and passenger agency portion of Boston.

This step on the part of the Lackawanna railroad is a further indication of the aggressive policy of the management. The agency is to be in charge of Mr. John Gourley, as New England freight agent. Mr. Gourley has had a long experience in New England soliciting work and is thoroughly acquainted with shippers and contracting men. For the past eight or ten years he has been a division freight agent of the Fitchburg railroad at Boston, and since the consolidation has filled the same position with the Boston & Maine. As his assistant he will have Mr. F. A. Farnsworth, who has been connected with the Fitchburg railroad for a number of years as local freight agent at Troy, as chief clerk to the general eastern freight agent and a chief clerk to the local agent at Boston.

MEN OF MIGHT.

Strong Nerves and Buoyant Blood made by Dr. Greene's NERVURA BLOOD AND NERVE REMEDY.

NEW LIFE AND HOPE FOR WEAK AND DESPONDENT MEN. OVER-WORK AND VITAL WEAKNESS LOSE THEIR TERRORS—MAGIC INFLUENCE OF DR GREENE'S NERVURA.

WHO ever heard of a nerveless hero?
What despondent warrior ever won a battle?
What great idea was ever evolved from a sleepless brain?
What high ideal or lofty aspiration ever came from low vitality?

It is the blood and nerves that move the world physically, mentally, and morally.

Napoleon had nerves of steel at Austerlitz and dyspepsia at Waterloo. King Richard suffered the agonies of insomnia the night before he met Richmond on the fatal field of Bosworth.

Low vitality, nervous weakness and exhaustion cause a majority of failures in every walk of life.

Are your nerves weak, shaky, and unstrung?
Are you unable to sleep at night, or do you have dreams?
Is it irksome to move, work, or think during the day?
Do you have dizziness, loss of memory, dimness of vision?
Do you have the blues, despondency, depression of mind?
Are you troubled with weak back, tremors, trembling, or palpitation?

These are some of the symptoms of nervous debility, vital weakness, nervous and physical exhaustion from over-work, excesses, and abuses.

The exhausted and hopeless feelings which you experience are merely symptoms of the disease.

A thorough revitalization is what you want.

Science has provided a specific for nervous debility, vital weakness and vitiated blood. It is the discovery of the famous Dr. Greene, and is known as Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Under the magic influence of this wonderful medicine the nerves soon regain their lost power and the spirits become buoyant as the body grows strong. The reinvigorated blood courses through the veins, substituting health and vigor for lassitude and despair.

Thousands of people, judges, statesmen, merchants, and working-men testify from personal experience to the prompt and permanent benefits of Dr. Greene's Nervura. The great good it has done for them it will certainly do for you. It is a sin to suffer when relief is within reach.

There are many cases of complex character which patients cannot fully understand. Dr. Greene cordially invites all sufferers to consult with him fully and freely, personally or by letter, at his office, 35 West 14th Street, New York City. There is no charge for such consultation and every communication is absolutely confidential.

BRAVERY IN BATTLE.

Curious Extracts From the Order Book of the Gallant Gen. Wolfe.

Some curiously interesting matter has lately been unearthed from an old order book of the 20th regiment, the "Minden boys," now the Lancashire Fusiliers, which emanated from the heroic soldier Wolfe, when colonel of the regiment, about 175-.

Their bearing upon military conduct in the field makes them very distinctly topical just now.

"Whoever shall throw away his arms in an action, whether officer, non-commissioned officer or soldier (unless it appears they are so damaged as to be useless), either under the pretense of taking up others that are of a better sort or for any other cause whatsoever, must expect to be tried by a court-martial for the crime.

"The death of an officer commanding a company or platoon shall be no excuse for the confusion or misbehavior of that platoon; for while there is an officer or non-commissioned officer left alive to command no man is to abandon his colors or betray his country.

"Neither officer, non-commissioned officer or soldier is to leave his position or abandon the colors for a slight wound. ... stand and hold his arms. It is infamous to retire.

"The battalion is not to halloo or cry out upon any account whatsoever, although the rest of the troops should do it, until they are ordered to charge with their bayonets; in that case, and when they are on the point of rushing upon their enemy, the battalion may give a warlike shout and rush in.

"The soldier who takes his musket from his shoulder and pretends to begin the battle without orders will be put to death that instant. The cowardice or irregular proceeding of one man is not to put the whole in danger.

"The soldier who quits his ranks or offers to fly is instantly to be put to death by the officer who commands the platoon. A soldier does not deserve to live who will not fight for his king and country.

"If a non-commissioned officer or private man is missing after an action and joins his company afterward unhurt, he will be reputed a coward and a fugitive, and will be tried for his life.

"If we attack a body less in extent than the battalion, the platoons upon the wings must be careful to direct their fire obliquely so as to strike the enemy. The officers are to inform the soldiers of their platoons before the action begins where they are to direct their fire; and they are to take a good aim to destroy their adversaries.

"There is no necessity for firing very fast. A cool, well-leveled fire, with the pieces carefully loaded, is much more destructive and formidable than the quickest fire in confusion. (The soldiers are to take their orders entirely from the officer of their platoon, and he is to give them with all possible coolness and resolution.) The misbehavior of any other corps will not affect this battalion, because the officers are determined to give the strongest proofs of their fidelity, zeal and courage, in which the soldiers will second them with their usual spirit.

"The men should consider that they are upon the point of entering into a war for the defense of their country; that a drunken, vicious, irregular army is but a poor defense to a state; but their virtues, courage and obedience are a sure guard in all assaults; they should, therefore, always be ready to perform their part with honor and spirit, and not give themselves up to any excess or irregularity. In times like these both officers and soldiers should particularly exert themselves in every part of the duty, and show their country that they deserve its esteem and admiration by their zeal, fidelity and valor."

The principles on which the British soldier should fight vary little to this day from those inculcated by General Wolfe.

REHEARSALS ON TRAIN.

Company En Route from Chicago to Salt Lake City Holds Rehearsals.

The Cumming Stock company, which recently played in Salt Lake City, traveled from Chicago to this city, over the Burlington route, under circumstances somewhat unusual, not to say startling. They rehearsed a play on a railroad car en route.

Manager Kallman and Mr. Cummings some time ago decided to make some changes in the original cast of the company and it was necessary to make some contracts by mail. This proved rather an unsatisfactory method. Although most of the members were in Chicago on time, there was some hitch in the start for Salt Lake City. Both Manager Kallman and Mr. Cummings were out here. The latter became anxious, and boarded a train for the east. He carried with him the parts for "A ... " the first play to be presented, and arriving in Chicago met 11 members of the company, distributed the roles, secured a special car and left for Salt Lake at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon over the Burlington. The days en route were devoted to study and rehearsals, and by the time the company reached here every member was well "up" in the parts assigned.—(The Salt Lake Herald.

The Gazette is delivered to regular subscribers by early morning carriers in Denver, Boulder, Cripple Creek, Victor, Pueblo, Canon City, Florence, Colorado Springs, Manitou, Colorado City and Broadmoor, and can be obtained from the newsboys and at the news stands in each of the above places.

A GOOD BEGINNING,

THE FIGURES of production for the first month of the new century at Cripple Creek are very satisfactory. A total of $2,200,000 for the month, or nearly $71,000 a day, is not to be sneezed at, and affords conclusive proof that the great gold camp is showing no signs of exhaustion.

Equally satisfactory is the showing made by the Colorado Springs mining exchange, where over 30 million shares, of a cash value of nearly $3,000,000, changed hands. The number of shares was nearly double the record for January of last year, while the cash value was increased about 50 per cent. The month's record also shows advancing prices, and the general situation is most favorable to all interested in our local market.

If Colorado Springs had no other dependence than Cripple Creek gold mines and mining stock its present outlook would be most favorable. But while those may be the main stays of our present prosperity and prospects, they by no means comprise the full extent of our resources. Our older, earlier dependence was upon our climate and other natural resources, which had already made this the most delightful resort city of the United States before the golden fountains began to pour forth their abundance at Cripple Creek. Of these nothing is yet abated, and Colorado Springs still profits from the reputation made and the connections established with the ever increasing mass of health and pleasure seekers.

And as elements of her business situation Colorado Springs has also in addition to these things just mentioned, most promising developments in her industrial and commercial life. The electric transmission of power derived from abundant supplies of cheap coal almost within the city limits is one of the most favorable features. The wholesale trade is beginning to take on proportions that will command widespread attention. The impending opening of the Cripple Creek short line is an event of incalculable benefit. The activity in the building trades is significant of the city's growth. A real estate movement of far reaching importance is already well established, and in every department of the city's development life and growth are abundantly evident.

Every indication points towards the largest growth this year that this city has ever known and those persons are indeed fortunate who find themselves in a position to share in its progress.

THE CUBAN SITUATION.

IN COMMENTING the other day upon the necessity for an extra session the Gazette spoke of the problems in the Philippines, Puerto Rico and Cuba as requiring prompt and thorough consideration.

A Washington correspondent of the Chicago Times-Herald, usually well informed in national affairs, considers that the Cuban problem is the one most pressing and the one most likely to cause serious trouble.

The situation in Cuba is briefly this. By the Teller resolution congress pledged the United States to withdraw from Cuba after securing peace and disclaimed any intention of annexing the islands. When the constitutional convention was called in Cuba the people were invited to adopt a constitution and also to agree upon the terms governing the future relations of the island and the United States. They have nearly completed the constitution, but they have shown no intention of doing anything towards a recognition that the United States is to be consulted in any way as interested in their domestic or foreign affairs. The constitution of Cuba is expected to be satisfactory to the United States, as affording a basis for stable government and releasing us from the obligations assumed by us as a result of destroying the Spanish authority over the islands.

But the difficulty is that there is absolutely no precedent in the matter. No one knows exactly what power congress has, and no one seems to be certain how the power it does have should be exercised. It is manifestly absurd that congress should be called on to ratify the constitution of a foreign state, but on the other hand unless congress is satisfied that the Cubans are capable of self government and have adopted a constitution that will secure that end, it is clearly a mistake to withdraw the American troops from the island and to give it over to anarchy and disorder.

Some time ago the American authorities in the island evolved the clever scheme of leaving the Cubans full control of their domestic affairs while the United States retained control of the foreign relations. The islanders were to have full power to do what they liked within the islands, but were not to make treaties with foreign powers, nor wage war against them, nor borrow money on their own account. The scheme was a good one, but the Cubans would have none of it, and went ahead with their constitution, assuming full powers of sovereignty and claiming every right accorded to entirely independent nations.

One thing is very clear. It is congress that ought to act, and to act promptly. Congress passed the Teller resolution, and congress ought to say whether the army of the United States should remain in the island or should be withdrawn from it. Whichever policy is chosen, there will be trouble for the island. If the troops remain, it seems almost inevitable that rebellion will break out and the United States will be confronted with a situation similar to that which has existed in the Philippines, and one that can only be settled by the conquest and annexation of the island without regard to the Teller resolution. On the other hand if the troops are withdrawn, and the constitution be allowed to come into full force with its provision for local provincial legislatures and universal suffrage, it will be probably only a question of a short time until the island is seething with internal dissensions and anarchy, and it will be fortunate if its finances are not hopelessly compromised, and if it is not plunged into some most embarassing complication with some European government. If the opinion of many of those most competent to judge is correct, the only outcome of such a situation would be the supremacy of a class in favor of annexation to the United States, and thus would be brought about at the cost of much turmoil and great loss of property, the result which would have followed naturally and easily if it had not been for the adoption of the unfortunate Teller resolution.

The character of those who now control the affairs of the island is not such as to give much hope for any form of compromise, and if the alternative is presented between a war on conquest and the abandonment of the island, it would be to avoid the conclusion that the latter is the only course possible under the circumstances.

Such a step ought not, however, to be taken until the situation has been most carefully examined, and this it is the duty of congress to do.

AN INALIENABLE RIGHT.

THERE IS A tempest in the Indiana legislature, and as frequently has happened of late, the source of the trouble is in the Girls Industrial school. A miscellaneous assortment of charges is made against the managers of the school, one of the most important being that no mirrors are furnished for the use of the girls.

Certainly here is proper subject for commotion, for discipline and for reform. The manager of a correctional school for girls who would deny the mellowing influences of the mirror upon his charges is clearly unfit for the position, and should at once make room for a director who has a clearer knowledge of human nature and the methods by which it may be influenced.

What a world it would be without mirrors; and who knows how much of the dissoluteness of the children of the slums is due to the lack of opportunity to see themselves as others see them. Vanity, like other qualities, has its excess, but it also has its deficiency, and deficiency and excess both lead to disagreeable results.

The mirror may be made a powerful moral agent, and the Indiana legislature is quite right in demanding that one shall be made an indispensable article in the furnishing of the room of each one of the state's charges.

A Society for the Promotion of the Use of Mirrors in the Slums would be more good and depend upon a more rational principle than some others of which we have heard.

CANADA'S MEMORIAL SERVICE.

IN NO COUNTRY in the world are church and state more thoroughly separated than in the United States, but as a rule people are not inclined to be sensitive upon the subject. It is not so in other countries.

An instance of this is to be found in a recent occurrence at Ottawa, the capital of Canada, where arrangement had been made to hold an elaborate ceremonial and memorial service in honor of the late queen. After many of the preparations had been made the governor general, Lord Minto, was reluctantly compelled to inform the cathedral authorities that the ministry of the dominion had refused to sanction the service on the ground that it might be construed as a recognition of the church of England as the state church of Canada.

Such a complication could only have arisen through a lack of broad mindedness on one side and of tact on the other. The memorial service should have been planned in such a way that all Canadians could join in it together, and on such an occasion there should be no insistence upon differences of party or creed.

NEEDLESS ALARM.

A GREAT FUSS is being made in some of the "anti" newspapers on account of the deportation from the Philippines of a newspaper editor, who published fake stories of the alleged stealings of American officials in the islands, and the attempt is being made to construe this as a gross violation of the constitutional right of a free press.

As usual the "antis" are wrong.

This fuss about constitutional rights being superior to the war power recalls the days of the great rebellion when the attempt was made to establish the absurd doctrine that our government did not possess the right of self-defense against its enemies.

And, moreover, it is not yet settled that constitutional rights have been extended to the Philippines.

The fuss that some of the yellow editors are making over this fellow is new proof of the truth embodied in the slightly amended old couplet:

"No rogue e'er saw the halter draw,
With good opinion of the law."

ROMANISM IN THE PHILIPPINES.

ONE OF THE NEWEST developments in the Philippines is the declaration that Senor Buencamino and other prominent Filipinos have turned from Catholicism and will ally themselves with the Protestant churches for the future.

It is perhaps not surprising that these Filipinos who have now ranged themselves with apparent loyalty on the side of the Americans, should change their creed as they have changed their politics.

But if will not be safe to count this change as a great moral advance or to claim it as a victory for Protestantism. The religion as taught and practised by the Philippine friars is something quite different from that professed and lived by American Catholics, and it remains to be seen whether the change that has been announced is really an improvement.

It is satisfactory at least to know that the change from the old religion has not been made the occasion for openly avowed infidelity and atheism as is too frequently the case in such instances.

The Chicago Record is a mine of useful and timely information. One of its latest paragraphs concerns the crown of England, which popular imagination pictures as the regular headgear of the king, to be hung on the hatrack in the front hall or kept on the back of the throne when the royal personage goes to bed. But according to the Record Queen Victoria never wore the crown of England except at her coronation in 1838 and when she sat for her portrait. It is the heaviest and most uncomfortable kind of a bonnet and weighs several pounds. The crown which for the admiration of the public reposes upon a scarlet velvet cushion in the treasury of the Tower of London, guarded by stalwart sentinels, is not the real thing but only an imitation. Very few people know where the real crown is. It is locked away in some strong vault under the care of Lieut.-Gen. Sir Frederick Dobson Middleton, K. C. G., C. B., keeper of the crown, who receives a salary of $1,500 a year for assuming this tremendous responsibility. The real crown contains 1,273 rose diamonds, 1,363 brilliants, 273 round pearls, 4 large egg-shaped pearls, 26 sapphires, 11 emeralds, 24 rubies and one large ruby set in the center of a diamond Maltese cross. This is the finest ruby in the world, and has a bloody history. It once belonged to the Moorish king of Granada. He got it, according to tradition, from an Abyssinian prince who captured it from a sultan of western Asia. Pedro the Cruel, king of Spain, invited his Moorish neighbor to visit him at the Alcazar of Seville. The heathen trusted the Christian, and came across the country, wearing his richest garments and jewels and attended by a special retinue. But before the hospitality of Don Pedro was exhausted every one of his guests was beheaded, and his own hands snatched this ruby from the turban of his rival. Edward I bought it from him and Henry V wore it in his helmet at the battle of Agincourt.

FROM THE PRESS OF THE NATION.

The Marshall Centenary.

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat.)

A hundred years of the practical operation of American law are almost completed. On January 20, 1801, President John Adams, who had just been defeated for re-election, nominated John Marshall for chief justice of the supreme court, to take the post vacated by the death of Oliver Elsworth. He was promptly confirmed by the senate, and he took his place at the head of the bench on February 4. The centennial of that day is to be celebrated with appropriate ceremonies at Washington. Observances are to take place in various parts of the country also, chiefly among members of the bar.

It is fitting that the anniversary should be observed all over the United States. Marshall did more than any other man, statesman or jurist, to give the central government that predominance in the American system by which the centrifugal forces, powerful in any federation, and especially potent in ours at the outset, were controlled, anarchy was averted and a nation built up which has expanded from ocean to ocean and annexed many of the islands of the sea. "It is a proposition too plain to be controverted," said Marshall in the case of Marbury against Madison, which came before him soon after he went to his exalted post, "that the constitution is either a paramount law, unchangeable by ordinary means or it is on a level with ordinary legislative acts, alterable when the legislature shall please. If the former be true then a legislative act contrary to the constitution is not law; if the latter, then written constitutions are absurd attempts on the part of the people to limit a power in its own nature illimitable." This principal of the supremacy of the federal constitution over the acts of congress and the fundamental and statutory laws of the states which Marshall announced at the outset in his judicial career, guided him in all his decisions in the thirty-four years of his service on the bench.

The effect of this doctrine, which Marshall put into operation, as occasion required, with vigor and fearlessness, though with due dignity and moderation, was subversive of the old particularist notions held throughout the greater part of the country at the beginning. It was applied to all sections and to all parties. "Nearly every state in the Union in turn," exclaimed the unfriendly Democratic Review, a prominent publication of that day, shortly after Marshall's death, "has been brought up for sentence. Georgia, New Jersey, Virginia, New Hampshire, Vermont, Louisiana, Missouri, Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland, New York, Massachusetts, South Carolina, Delaware—all passed through the Caudine forks of subjugation." It was thus that the supremacy of the constitution was established throughout the United States. Delome said that in England parliament could do anything except change a man into a woman or a woman into a man. But congress as Marshall proclaimed, had no such omnipotence under the American system. Another was the nature of a constitution. This colloquy in the federal convention of 1787, Alexander Hamilton, wrote most of the Federalist letters of 1787-88, which were one of America's leading classics. But neither of these two eminent men, nor Washington, who presided over the convention which framed the charter, had as much influence in shaping that instrument into the form which it is to-day, as did the great chief justice of the first third of the nineteenth century. He it was who transformed the United States from a league into a nation. More than any other one man whom the United States has produced, the supreme court's head of 1801-34, established the fact that the government could govern. John Adams said he wanted these words for an epitaph on his own tombstone: "Here lies the man who took upon himself the responsibility of the peace with France in 1800." A far more creditable and impressive inscription would have been: "Here lies the man who placed John Marshall at the head of the supreme court."

An Ax For the Root.

(New York Press.)

The spectacle which one woman, Mrs. Nation by name, is making of herself, of local barroom fixtures and, incidentally, of Kansas law, is amusing. She is a fanatic, of course, embarked on a vigorous crusade, which in the minds of sober folk has neither rhyme nor reason to defend it. And yet she has found things going decidedly her own way. She has defied punishment for the simple reason that the places which she assails have no right to existence under the Kansas law.

The bet way to repeal a bad law is not always to enforce it. Sometimes it is just as well to allow strenuous femininity to club it to death. For this is what must clearly happen to the Kansas anti-saloon law unless a way be devised to deal with such eccentricities and "save the face" of the statute. What is the use of a law which it is impossible to enforce? Mrs. Nation offers the first coherent answer to this question.

In the fullness of time, possibly, legislators will learn the ultimate folly of striving to please everyone. There is only a certain number of people in the world who are quibbling to be convinced that the moon is made of green cheese. A state prohibition law tickles the palates of the prohibition following, an official winking eye for illegal selling causes joy for the liquor element. Too soon or later the water will spill from one shoulder on the other. One of the heifers will butt the plow traces. In such a condition it is an open question on whose foot the shoe belongs. The governor is sworn to execute the statutes but he is no fanatic. Mrs. Nation is making herself and her cause ridiculous, but she is no hypocrite. She winks at no illdoing which she has sworn to root out, nor does she wink at the bartenders.

Edward VII'S Ancestors.

(Chicago Journal.)

In his speech delivered upon his accession to the throne, the new king said: "I have resolved to be known by the name of Edward, which has been borne by six of my ancestors."

If Macaulay was right on a certain occasion, when he took the liberty to correct the queen, the king should have said predecessors, and not ancestors. Once when Macaulay was visiting at Windsor the queen very pleasantly complimented him upon his history, and expressed the opinion that he had not been too severe upon her "ancestor, James II." "Your majesty's predecessor, not your ancestor," replied the ever exact Macaulay. "I hope," writes Macaulay in his diary, noting the incident, "I was not disrespectful."

If James II. was not the ancestor of Queen Victoria, neither were the Edwards. The house of Brunswick, which now occupies the British throne, is not sprung from the Stuarts, from the Tudors, or from the Plantagenets. It is distantly related to, but not descended from them, and consequently it is erroneous to speak of them as ancestors.

The first five Edwards were Plantagenets and were the descendants of William the Conqueror. The sixth Edward was the son of Henry VIII. and a Tudor.

Restitution Should be Made.

(Salt Lake Tribune.)

We copy this from the New York Tribune:

The site of the "old fort," where the first settlers of Springfield, Mass., took refuge from the Indians, has been marked with a bronze tablet placed by the Springfield Fire and Marine Insurance company on its building, which it occupies in conjunction with the Hampden Savings bank, at the corner of Fort and Main streets. The plate is two feet wide and three feet high, bearing on either side the Pynchon arms in relief and a relief of the original fort. Underneath is this inscription:

This plate commemorates the building known as
THE OLD FORT
erected on this site in 1660,
by Major
WILLIAM PYNCHON,
leader of the first settlers
of Springfield.

That being in Springfield, Mass., it would be interesting if the Springfield Republican would explain how it was that Major William Pynchon was in that country exercising arbitrary power without the consent of the red man in the words adjacent? Manifestly he was an invader; manifestly he had no regard at that time for the Declaration of Independence, and to carry out the theories of Mr. Cleveland and the Springfield Republican, the people who think they own that land about there are mistaken; they ought to send to the reservation to see if any of the red men are left, and, if there are, they ought to be brought home and given possession. A wrong never outlaws. If the land about Springfield, Mass., was taken away from those original owners, restitution ought to be made, or as Mr. Cleveland says, "things will never again be as they were." It seems to be a great deal worse case than ours in the Philippines, because all the government of the United States has attempted there has been to establish sovereignty and to give peace to the settlers and safety to their property, whereas this transaction in Massachusetts was a clear grab, for the lands of another race. The matter should be submitted to Mr. Edward Atkinson and Mr. Winslow and others in Boston, and such restitution should be made as is at this late date possible.

OPEN PARLIAMENT

The Republican Management.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 31, 1901.

Editor Colorado Springs Gazette:

Last Sunday's edition of the Gazette, in the open parliament column contained an article from the pen of Colonel Ed. F. Browne of Cripple Creek, commenting rather caustically upon the state of the Republican party in Colorado, and averring that the party managers were responsible for the party's defeat in the campaign just closed. From his system of logic he arrived at the following conclusions, which were set forth in the above-mentioned article: That the importation of outside speakers, with the exception of Mr. Schoonmaker of New Jersey, a gentleman the colonel claims never to have heard of, lessened the party's chances of success that the state nominees were merely tails to the senatorial kite; that the party managers arrayed the Republican forces and directed their energies against the silver mining industry of this state, and he concluded his treatise with this sage advice, "In politics be politic," which advice I take to be a been an after-thought, as it applies with much force to the colonel's views.

Judging from the results of the election in other parts of the country I had not supposed the efforts of such men as Colonel Roosevelt, Senator Allison and others hardly less noted as wise and able politicians and party leaders, had been productive of harmful consequences in Colorado, and as for Mr. Schoonmaker, whom it seems Colonel Browne did not know was an inhabitant of this country, is barely possible and indeed, I sincerely trust, that he lost but few nights' rest by reason of the disturbing echoes of the colonel's fame.

Concerning the remarks anent the state nominees as tails appended to the senatorial kite, it is well to note that this ticket flew higher in point of party strength than has anything of the like nature during the party's existence in Colorado.

Respecting the attitude of the party toward certain industries, the colonel, if he is familiar with the platform of the Republican party, must know that its most prominent features were declarations favoring the continued protection of all industries and the maintainance of the standard of currency to which, in a large measure the present gratifying conditions are due, and the managers of the campaign in Colorado in not compromising any of the party's principles did much in dispelling the idea that the Republican party was sectional in its views upon public questions. Col. Browne must also have noticed that the apparent ease with which Mr. Bryan adapted his views and applied the principles of his party to meet the varying public sentiment in different parts of the country, was a factor contributing not a little to his defeat.

If there were any Republicans remaining who entertained the idea that their party was constructed upon sectional plans, its attitude and conduct in the recent campaign ought certainly to have dissipated such views. Flexibility of doctrine is a feature peculiar to the Democratic party, and Col. Browne's advice, therefore, was directed to the wrong side of the house.

I will finish this note by reminding Col. Browne that an increase in party following sufficient to poll a vote larger than the party has had previously, is not generally accepted as evidence of unusual weakness, nor does it denote bad management.

Coal Mine Strike Not Fully Settled

There is still a coal strike of large proportions in effect at the mines north of Colorado Springs. The agreement which was reached between the miners' committee and the operators on Thursday, was not effective in settling the strike, only about 40 per cent. of the miners reporting for work yesterday. There were barely enough men at the Pike's Peak company's properties to keep them working, and the situation at the Curtis properties, while somewhat better, was not what it was expected to be, and the trouble there is not settled.

The men held a mass meeting at Roswell last night at which the agreement was discussed. The action taken however, was simply to appoint another committee to make an effort to procure further concessions from the operators, and the men will receive the report of this committee at a mass meeting to be held probably tomorrow. The compromise which was reached between the operators and the committee of miners on Thursday was with a committee representing the union as an organization, and if the union itself is satisfied with the agreement. The meeting held last night, which was attended by about 100 miners, was not a union meeting but a mass meeting called by the men and run by the men, the union officers having nothing to do with it.

It is claimed by men who were present at the meeting last night, that there is no settlement of the strike at the present time any more than there was before Thursday's agreement was reached, and that no company has reached any more of an agreement with its men than have all the companies.

The output at the Curtis mines yesterday was sufficient, notwithstanding this claim on the part of the men, to start the coal wagons rolling into Colorado Springs with their freight of coal; but they were not very numerous and just what the situation will be today is problematical.

It is certainly the strangest situation that anyone ever saw. The union does not seem to be in complete control and the present difficulty seems to be a disagreement among the men.

The Nolon Hearing Concluded Yesterday

The hearing of the supplementary proceedings in the case of Cassady vs. Nolon was continued in the district court yesterday before Referee Kinsley and was concluded at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. It was one of the most interesting and at the same time one of the most uninteresting hearings that has been held in Colorado Springs for a long time.

It was interesting because it involved the financial status of a man commonly reputed to be worth his hundreds of thousands of dollars and known to have been the promoter of several projects of no small proportions, most of which were supposed to be prospering. It was uninteresting [illegible] sat in the courtroom and listened to the testimony it seemed that this man is in a state bordering upon destitution. It was uninteresting because it seemed as though the examination required a day and a half to complete might have been completed in a half hour easily, so far as apparent results were concerned.

The features of the hearing, as would naturally be supposed, was the testimony of Mr. Nolon himself. He had about the least knowledge of his own affairs of any man in the court room, and all efforts of counsel for the Cassadys, Messrs. Crowell and Lombard, brought out little that could be construed as an indication that Mr. Nolon had either money, property or friends. Mr. Crowell asked him if he had any money and he said he had not. He said furthermore that he had no property. He did not remember at what time in the past he had had any property. He had no recollection of having been the possessor of any diamonds within the past year, nor could he remember when, if ever, he was an owner of a horse, harness or pneumatic tired buggy.

Mr. Crowell asked Mr. Nolon whether he had had any diamonds in the past year and he said he did not remember. Asked whether his wife had given him any diamonds during the past year he said he did not know and when asked whether she had loaned him any he said he was not able to state.

He did remember having taken a trip to Salt Lake and admitted that when he left Colorado for Salt Lake he had some money.

"How much did you have?" asked Mr. Crowell.

"Six or seven thousand dollars," was the reply.

"Was it six thousand?"

"Yes, it was more than that."

"Was it seven thousand?"

"No, I don't think it was quite as much as that."

"What did you do with that money?"

"I lost it."

"How did you lose it?"

"Bad investment."

The examination during the opening hours of the day was considerably in the nature of a repetition of what was gone over the day before. During the opening hours of the afternoon some of the ground that was gone over in the morning was covered and during the closing moments of the hearing the referee listened to a resume of what had been covered in the previous hours of the hearing.

When it had been concluded and Mr. Crowell for the Cassadys and Messrs. J. Maurice Finn and General Engley for Mr. Nolon said: "That's all," Referee Kinsley sighed a heavy sigh and rising from the bench said:

"This hearing will now adjourn sine die, and may the Good Lord have mercy on your souls."

Plumbers Went on a Strike Yesterday

The journeymen plumbers went on a strike yesterday as per schedule. At 8 o'clock the master plumbers had not notified the officers of the union that they had agreed to the $5 a day schedule and the men struck. They went to their places of employment and packed up their tools. Not a bit of plumbing was done in the town yesterday. There are six master plumbers in the city able to do a day's work and they are ready to do all they can, but they cannot take the places of the 63 strikers.

The journeymen held a meeting yesterday afternoon but there was nothing resulting from it. A member of the union said last evening that he does not anticipate anything will be done before Monday night when their regular meeting is held. They have a regular grievance committee that is willing to meet the masters at any time.

Last evening the master plumbers held a meeting. It followed a meeting of the building trades association. The master builders adopted resolutions encouraging the master plumbers in the stand they have taken in the refusal to grant the demands of the journeymen.

What the master plumbers did at their meeting could not be learned last night after they adjourned. Earlier in the evening one of them said that they would continue to refuse the demand of the journeymen because it is excessive. He said that only $4 is paid in Denver and other cities, and if they pay a $5 rate it puts them at a disadvantage in bidding for work. Contractors from other cities can come in here and take the work from them. He said that in one job he has in hand the increased demand makes a difference of over $900.

The controversy is a standoff just now and neither side seems willing to yield. Many buildings are at a standstill in the city and much good work is being delayed.

MEN WAITERS

One of the most successful church suppers that has been held here for a long time was that at the First Christian church last evening at which the serving was done by the young men of the church. The supper was abundant and exceedingly well prepared and the service was something that no one who was there will soon forget.

The management of the function very kindly issued a code of rules for the protection of the people. One rule provided that any waiter refusing a tip would be promptly discharged, and the vigorous enforcement of this measure so badly depleted the ranks of the waiters after the first hour that it was necessary for some of the young ladies to help keep the operations going. Another protective measure was that suggesting that guests wear old clothes, the waiters being a job lot. The wisdom which had been the father of this suggestion was demonstrated several times during the course (first course) of the dinner.

A good time was had by all who were there and a good sum of money was netted for the church.

When threatened by pneumonia or any other lung trouble, prompt relief is necessary, as it is dangerous to delay. We would suggest that One Minute Cough Cure be taken as soon as indications of having taken cold are noticed. It cures quickly and its early use prevents consumption. Hefley, Arcularius Drug Co., E. E. Smith, 117 South Tejon street.

BIGGEST STRIKE YET

One never knows what there is in this world for him until he tries. Out in California the people are coming into a life competency or a fortune with a suddenness which is startling, especially when considered from a point of legitimate investment. And it is all over oil—oil, as it oozes, is pumped or gushes from the earth and that in such surprising quantities that in less than two years scores of erstwhile poor men have become prominent among the millionaires of the state.

The scene of such unusual activity is situated in Kern county, just to the north of the celebrated mountains of the Tehachepi. The Santa Fe and Southern Pacific railroads traverse this county, and spurs of the Southern Pacific run into these oil districts. Chief among these are the McKittrick and the Sunset. In no other part of California is there so prolific a yield of oil. And when one considers that a return on his investment may be expected in about 90 days from the date of commencement of drilling the cause why oil mining has superseded gold mining is easily explained. The wait for returns is immeasurably shortened and the increase in value of stocks and profits correspondingly increased. That the oil industry has added a new star to the glory of the Golden State there can be no doubt.

In Colorado Springs the people are as alert to this growing oil giant as in all other sources from which a legitimate revenue may be obtained and have bought quite extensively and with very satisfactory results. Prominently among others is the Three States Oil company. Yesterday this company, together with the Bachelor's Oil company, Sunset Vortex Oil company and the Section Six Oil company, all of Kern county, opened headquarters in room 8, formerly occupied by V. E. Rouse, in the Giddings block. The topography of this new territory is vividly portrayed on maps and numerous photographs showing in minutest detail the developments made.

Mr. Tyree A. Bell, the manager, has been a resident of California for over 30 years, and is also an extensive holder of some of the best producing wells in that state. He is assisted by California representatives. The public is invited to call. Information will be freely imparted and to purchasers and non-purchasers alike.

NEWS OF THE COURTS

In the second division of the district court yesterday the case of Solomon Fretz vs. the Colorado-Philadelphia Reduction company was on trial. The testimony for the plaintiff was pretty well in when the court adjourned last night and the hearing of the case will be resumed this morning.

Plaintiff demands damages in the sum of $10,000 for personal injuries sustained by him while in the employ of the defendant company. The plaintiff was struck by a piece of pipe which fell upon his shoulder and broke some of the bones. The accident occurred about 18 months ago.

In the case of Croot vs. Town of Manitou, the motion of defendant to quash citation for contempt of court was argued and granted.

The case of Snider vs. Colorado Midland railroad was reset for trial March 6.

The case of Jones vs. the Colorado Midland railroad was reset for March [illegible].

In the county court the case of McCauley vs. Griswold was brought on for trial. After the evidence for the prosecution was in defendant made a motion that the court give the jury instruction to find for the defendant. The jury retired to permit an argument on the motion and the parties to the suit agreed to a compromise on lines suggested by the court.

The case of Kennedy, Stote and Co. vs. Ferrin was on trial in the county court in the afternoon.

An appeal from J. P. court entitled C. H. White vs. Hart and Low was filed in the county court yesterday.

MEMORY OF THE QUEEN

Colorado Springs, Colo., Feb. 2, 1901.

The influence of a great life and character is not bounded by national lines nor confined within political divisions. A noble and pure life thus becomes the heritage of every nation, and when quenched in death the whole world suffers loss. Today every civilized nation stands with uncovered head by the bier of the greatest queen in history, and the most illustrious woman of the past century. Bound to us by ties of race and by acts of friendship, personal and official, it is impossible that this nation should not feel especial sorrow in the death of Queen Victoria. Among other acts we recall her friendly attitude during our civil and Spanish-American wars. We recall, too, that when our President Garfield lay dead the court of Great Britain was ordered by the queen to go into mourning, a departure from all precedents. It seems especially fitting that in this city the residence of so many citizens former subjects of the queen, and in deference to the universal sentiment of respect for her life and person, and grief for her death, we take official recognition of the sad event now stirring the hearts of Great Britain, and I hereby order the flag over our city hall placed at half mast on this, the day of burial of Queen Victoria.

BUILDING TO BEGIN

Secretary John D. Long will begin the erection of his new residence in this city some time next week. The house will be situated as already announced, on Wood avenue, [illegible] cottage at present 1502 Wood avenue, now occupied by Secretary Long's daughters.

Some time ago the Misses Long came to this city in company with the secretary for the benefit of Miss Long's health. She was so much better in this climate that she has remained here ever since while the secretary returned to his official duties at Washington. They rented the house at No. 1502 but when it was sold a short time ago they decided to build a home of their own. It was not the desire of the secretary to build a large residence but simply a home for his daughters during their stay in this city. Mr. T. MacLaren, the architect, drew up the plans and work will be commenced on the house next week. It will be a ten-room cottage. It will be situated on the lot immediately north of 1502 Wood avenue and will be ready for occupancy by early summer. While the cottage will not be a very pretentious house it will be made as homelike as possible and will be built to suit the wants of the secretary's daughters, who are greatly in love with the climate of this state.

GOOD MATTRESSES! It is surprising to find so many houses furnished with shoddy mattresses! The "Wool Mattress" so much in use, is made of old blankets, old clothes, and old rags chopped up and "disinfected." The fact that they are soft and cheap has blinded many to the danger of using them. Hair, Cotton, Moss, Elastic Felt, and other grades are good. With long experience in making mattresses my patrons will always find in stock ready for immediate delivery the BEST THERE IS AT THE LOWEST PRICES. Special orders requiring skilled work promptly executed.

Imitations Are Always Plentiful

When you ask for a can of BATAVIA TOMATOES in any of the "pick-up-lots" kind of grocery stores you will be shown something which the profit-greedy store-keeper will tell you is "just as good." It's not, and you will know it at the first trial.

The Tomatoes you get here are put up at the Batavia Canneries. Each fruit is picked from the vine at the point of ripe perfection. Each fruit must be sound, sweet-flavored, full-juiced, and in the process of cooking the indigestible seeds are mellowed. Some people can't go Tomatoes—the seeds are the cause of their trouble but the Batavia Process of Perfection produces a Tomato nourishing to the well, delicious to the sick.

MABEL M. DEVELOPMENT

Electric Hoist For Morning Glory No. 1--Latrobe G. M. Co. Has Cut a Big Phonolite Dike on the Pittsburg Claim.

Special to the Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Feb. 1.—The Mabel M. company is about to commence work of sinking an additional 100 feet in the main shaft of the property on the east slope of Beacon hill. The shaft is now down to the 350-foot level, where a [illegible] is being extracted. At the 400 foot point a crosscut will be run for 50 feet to the west to catch the best of the ore shoots and then drifts will be started north and south.

An electric hoisting plant has been ordered for the Morning Glory No. 1 shaft of the Work company. The Latrobe G. M. company will operate the property by lease commencing February 1. The hoist will be 15 horsepower as for sinking is contemplated for the start. Operations will be continued to the 250 and 300-foot levels as at the present. In the 350-foot level there is a two foot ore body which will average in shipment about $30 to the ton, while an eight inch streak at the 275-foot depth is good for $80 ore.

The Latrobe G. M. company has cut a big phonolite dike in the 300-foot level on the Pittsburg claim on Straub mountain. Drifting has been going on for some time and the ore was encountered at a distance of 70 feet from the shaft. However, such a heavy flow of water has come in that it will be impossible to commence drifting at once. A sump is being made ready and the 300-foot station is being enlarged to make room for pumps.

The Cripple Creek & Cripple Creek G. M. company operating the Bonanza King of the Midget company on Gold Hill has about cleared the ore out of the levels above the 300-foot point and shipments are being made with less frequency than formerly. The old stopes are being worked out and a good deal of attention is being given to the Gold Hill tunnel level where a drift is being run on a vein in which the ore is quartz.

The Midget company is operating the Bonanza King, below the 300-foot level from the Midget workings, and is opening up the ground in good shape.

A two car load shipment will be sent out on Sunday from the Bonanza mine. Returns of about $100 to the ton are expected from the ore.

The January production from the Potvin and Vaine lease on the Christmas amounts to 700 tons of ore which has an average value of 2½ ounces to the ton.

S. L. Smith, who recently purchased a lease on the main block of the Zenobia from Letendre and Ritter, sent out 5 tons of ice ore on Wednesday. The ore comes from the surface level.

RICH STRIKE IN THE PINNACLE.

But No Legitimate Ore Shoot Has as Yet Been Opened--The Streak is Rich Enough to Make Screenings Run $51.

A very marked improvement has just taken place in the Lansing claim of the Pinnacle company, and because of this the stock has been very active on change of late, and yesterday sold as high as 22 cents.

The improvement has taken place in that block of ground originally worked and made famous by Whipp and Glenn, and now worked on company account. Whipp and Glenn, however, took out the bulk of their ore south of the main shaft, but the recent find has been made north of the shaft, between the first and second levels.

The company started work in the old drifts some time ago and started on [illegible] streak of ore which has constantly improved in value during the progress of the work. The streak is between one and one-half and two inches in width, and yields assays varying from $150 to $300 in gold to the ton. One assay ran as high as $8,800.

When the ore had begun to show up so well in the upraise, work was started in the floor of the drift and the streak has now been opened up below. It is of about the same width, as above, and gives assays of between $36 and $82.

The vein is between three and four feet in width, but apparently carries no values excepting in the narrow streak. But even breaking the barren rock with the fertile streak, the screenings average between $21 and $51. It appears therefore as if there were a shipping amount of ore in sight, although no legitimate ore shoot has been opened up. The find is one of importance merely for the profit which can be made directly of the ore which is in sight, but because of the possibilities it indicates for work north of the shaft.

In addition to the work which is being done on company account, several sets of lessees are at work, and the property looks in a more encouraging condition than it has for some time.

TWO CARS OF MISSOURI ORE SAVED

Broken Down in Running an Upraise on the Ore--On Each Side of the Tunnel the Vein Carries no Pay Ore.

About two carloads of ore has now been broken down in the Moonlight claim of the Missouri Gold Mining company, and the ore body is reported to be looking better than ever. The ore is greater in width and richer than when it was first encountered.

The shipping ore is not at the tunnel level, however. Some vagueness has existed about its exact location, and it was learned yesterday from an official that drifts directly from the tunnel level both ways on the vein had failed to reveal any ore higher than a few dollars in gold to the ton.

An upraise was started, and immediately the ore began to improve until now the showing is promising. The upraise has been made for about 15 feet, and the ore opened for a distance of about 20 feet, making a body of ore shaped something like a funnel, and there is a chimney of ore above the tunnel.

So far the development has been confined to the upraise. Whether a drift in either direction would reveal an extension of the ore body, or another shoot, cannot be known at present.

The upraise will be continued as long as the air is pure, and a stope may then be run up to the ore.

The vein is about 2 feet wide, and the values are good pay, and all the appearances now point to the existence of an ore body of considerable importance, although the unusual way in which it has been found and opened leaves some room for doubt as to its permanence.

LARGE PLANT FOR LITTLE NELL

The Company Will Install One on the Harcourt Ground, in Which Lease it Owns a Half Interest.

The Little Nell company, which owns a half interest in the Harcourt lease on block 3 of the company's Arequa properties, will install a first-class plant of machinery over the shaft at once so that the work may be pushed more rapidly.

The lessees, Harcourt, Painter and Reese are already saving ore towards a second shipment. The first ran good pay, and it is expected that the second car, which is sent out, will run better for the reason that little care was taken in sorting the ore which was shipped previously. The ore is all coming from the shipment work, no stoping at all being done.

If stoping were started large shipments could be maintained, but the company is insisting upon the proper development of the property, and intend to get a large body of ore in sight before any attempt is made to make a show as a permanent shipper.

The other portions of the property, which are all being actively developed, are looking well. On block 2 the lessee is driving for the extension of the Harcourt vein and expects to encounter it any day.

The stock of the company has been very popular on the local mining exchange lately, and the price has held up well. The section of the camp where the Little Nell property is located is represented by some of the most active traders on the board.

MINING NOTES AROUND TOWN

There will be no call on the Colorado Springs mining stock exchange today. Many of the stock exchanges throughout the country are adjourned until Monday out of respect to the memory of the late [illegible], and the members of this one were desirous of taking a similar course; although truth to tell the reason may not be so sympathetic a one as implied. The business for the past five weeks has been extremely heavy and the brokers are not at all loath to a day's rest.

RETURNS RECEIVED FROM A GOLD KING SHIPMENT.

Returns have just been received in this city from a shipment recently marketed from the Dunleasse on the Gold King claim of the Savage Gold and Copper Mining company. The consignment consisted of 17 tons of ore which returned values of $28 in gold to the ton. This is the latest of a series of shipments which the lessee has been maintaining from this claim, and is well located on Gold hill, adjoining the Lexington. The Savage company owns copper properties in the Silver City district of New Mexico and lead and zinc propositions near Nogales, Arizona. The Gold King claim was formerly a property of the Gold and Globe company, but was sold to the Savage for a block of stock in the latter company.

AGNES LESSEES ARE SAVING GOOD ORE.

The lessees on the Four Brothers claim of the Agnes Gold Mining company are saving good ore from their recent strike at a depth of about 30 feet from the surface, and now have about 30 tons saved for shipment. The shaft in which the lessees are working is on the south end of the claim, and is down something over 60 feet. Ore was first opened at about half that distance, but the shaft was continued to its present depth before any of it was taken out. It is understood that the ore has been opened up also in a crosscut run from the bottom of the shaft, and that the values are as good as above. The ore which is now being saved averages between one and one-half and two ounces in gold to the ton. There are higher streaks in the ore, but no effort is made to save high casses. The vein which has been opened is one parallel to the contact of granite and phonolite which are the Four Brothers claim for a considerable distance.

LEASE GRANTED ON FULTON-MARGUERITE.

The directors of the Fulton-Marguerite company have just granted a lease on their Marguerite claim to John McGivney and associates the latter including some well known and influential Cripple Creek mining men whose names are not yet made public. The lease will run for 18 months from yesterday and calls for 20 per cent royalties and stipulates for 10 feet of sinking every month. This claim is located on Gold hill, was recently worked by Davenport and associates under a lease which was finally cancelled because the lessees failed to live up to the agreements. They had opened out in their lease on an adjoining claim of the Anaconda and took out ore on the Marguerite claim with the intention of opening up the extension of the ore in that claim. They never searched for the ore, however, and it is probable that the Mentynes lessees will do so at once.

Cancer There are several distinct signs of Cancer when the blood is polluted and the system thoroughly contaminated by this deadly virulent poison.

Then a sore or ulcer appears on some part of the body; it may be small and harmless looking at first, but as the cancerous cells form and are deposited by the blood near the sore, it increases in size and severity, with sharp shooting pains. No matter how often the sore is removed by the surgeon's knife or flesh destroying plasters, another comes and is worse. The real disease is in the blood, and the treatment must begin there. The poisoned blood must be invigorated and purified, and when this is done cancerous cells can no longer form and the sore will heal naturally and permanently.

Mrs. Sarah M. Keeling, 20 Windsor Ave., Bristol, Tenn., writes: "I am 41 years old, and for three years had suffered with a severe form of Cancer on my face. Specialists said it was incurable, and that I could live more than six months. I accepted their statement as true, and had given up all hope of ever being well again, when my druggist, knowing of my condition recommended S. S. S. After using a few bottles the sore began to heal to the surprise of the physicians, and [illegible] a complete cure. I have gained [illegible] appetite is splendid, sleep is refreshing [illegible] and enjoying perfect health."

S S S overcomes this destructive poison and removes every vestige of it from the system, makes new, rich blood, strengthens the body and builds up the general health.

If you have a suspicious sore, or have inherited any blood taint, send for our free book on Cancer, and write to our medical department for any information or advice wanted; we make no charge for this service. Your letter will receive prompt and careful attention, and will be held in strictest confidence.

BIG BOILER FOR JOLLY JANE'S TECUMSEH

The big boiler just purchased by the Jolly Jane company is now being moved to the company's Tecumseh claim and will be installed in a few days. Thereafter the sinking of the shaft will be pushed even more rapidly than heretofore. At the surface on this claim some remarkable rich assays were shown from a very good looking vein and the management feels confident that a little greater depth will show plenty of pay ore. That shaft, which is being sunk down as a working shaft, is not on the vein, but as soon as proper depth is attained a crosscut will be run to the main vein, besides seven prospective crosscuts which will be run in different parts of the property. The Jolly Jane company's Grace Arthur claim on Beacon hill are mtting with encouraging indications.

ORPHA MAY SHAFT IS DOWN 1,000 FEET.

The shaft on the Orpha May on Bull hill, one of the properties of the Stratton Cripple Creek Mining and Development company, has now attained a depth of 1,000 feet below the surface and it is the intention of the management to continue it to a depth of 1,500 feet and then make it one of the central shafts for the development of the Bull hill group of claims. At the 600-foot level crosscuts are being driven for the Pike's Peak and Grouse veins.

CHRISTMAS PRODUCED 750 TONS IN JANUARY.

The output from the Christmas mine on the south slope of Bull hill amounted to about 750 tons for the month of January which meets the average which the present lessees have been making for the past few months. The ore is averaging about $50 in gold to the ton. Recently in upraising between the sixth and fifth levels an extremely rich pocket of ore was encountered which yields assays as high as $4,000 in gold to the ton. The development work in the sixth level is progressing very rapidly with machine drills, and a strong body of ore is being worked in. Potvin and Vaine, the lessees, have still about two years left of their lease.

BONZAI SHAFT HAS ATTAINED 105-FOOT POINT.

The shaft on the Bonzai property, on Squaw mountain, has now attained a depth of 105 feet, and the vein is still dipping considerably, having left the shaft at a depth of 90 feet. Lessees are following it down, regardless of the angle, determined not to lose the ore, which, although it does not run high, gives promise of developing into a pay shoot. Assays as high as $60 have been obtained; but the average is much lower.

LUCRATIVE'S NEIGHBOR BOUGHT BY BLOCK

(Special Correspondence.)

Denver, Feb. 1. Col. Ben Block of this city has purchased the Dad Rogers claim, at Bonanza. It side lines the Eagle of the Lucrative company for 1,500 feet and the colonel insists that a lug shoot of the latter company heads direct from a west level for his claim. Col. Block goes east shortly, where he can command ample capital to develop the property.

"In 60 days the camp will be filled with Colorado and eastern bargain hunters," said Mr. Adolf Mayer of the firm of Mayer & Gotthelf Mercantile company of Saguache, "but the cream will be gone."

There are now two new concentrating mills in operation and a third is building. The dumps are filled with good pay ore and there are lots of good dumps being rapidly taken up. Cheap treatment will make a second Cripple Creek of the camp, which was abandoned about 15 years ago, when it cost as mint to mine."

THE COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE

Colorado Springs, Feb. 1.—February opened as auspiciously on the local mining exchange as did January. Stocks were generally a little more active than they have been for the past two weeks, especially in the prospects list, and the mines department is also in a prosperous condition. Several fractional advances were scored this morning, and the volume of trading was very good, augmented slightly by the fact that today closes the week on 'change. The new flotations, while still much in favor, are surely surrendering some of their popularity to the older stocks, and there is an evidence of even a better month during February than in January. Brokers are advising their clients to buy the old-timers at once, and a general advance in that class of shares would not be a surprise.

In the afternoon the market was active again and prices were, as a rule, firm. Several practical advances were scored and there seemed to be very little profit taking. The feature of the call was furnished by Missouri which sold up to 14¾ under heavy trading. It is reported that shipments will soon be started from this property. Easter Bell was strong at 5¾, as was Progress at 7. Acacia was practically stationary at 23 as was Sedan at 15, and Shannon sold well at 4. Blanche was stronger at 11. Lucrative sold at 5, St. Thomas at 8¾ and Zoe at 5¼. In the mines list Anaconda weakened further to 42¾ and Butterfly-Terrible sold at 29½. Doctor-Jack Pot, however, was a good trader and sold at 4½. Gold Sovereign at 8¾. Kimberly was a brisk trader at fractionally advancing prices, and Sedan was strong around 16. Shannon gained fractionally closed at 2¾, buyer 30.

| | Shares. | Cash Value. |
|---|---|---|
| Monday | 1,368,048 | $126,584 |

EASTERN MARKETS.

New York, Feb. 1.—Fluctuations in the stock market today were very pronounced in a number of cases and professional operators were successful in reviving bullish interest [illegible] as they saw fit. They resorted to palpable manipulation at times in order to acquire a following and after successfully bidding up a leading group, realized on their holdings and began anew in other quarters. As a result the mark[et] displayed at one time or another pronounced strength in every division. To what extent, if any, the public figured in today's movements remains conjectural. Reports of combinations of various properties continued to be heard, thereby increasing interest in the minor railroads which assumed considerable prominence in the day's dealings. Later in the day a report was current that Union Pacific had secured control of the Southern Pacific. No official confirmation could be had of this statement, but the fact that the market for Union Pacific boiled for a time, with the stock rising 1½ points, with transactions of 225,000 shares, was sufficient in itself according to the views of traders as being authoritative. It was admitted that a leading interest in Southern Pacific had sold out to a syndicate, presumably represent ng Union Pacific. This announcement coming on top of the [illegible] reports of varied dividends, extraordinary earnings, trade combinations, and so on which were rife early in the day, threw the market into excitement and blocks of from 1,000 to 5,000 shares changed hands with as little hesitation as if they were fractional lots.

At the outset the improvement in prices which gradually gained strength was assisted by the higher range of prices from London. Foreign houses bought early, but subsequently unloaded about 100,000 shares of Southern Pacific. That stock strengthened somewhat after the London selling had ceased and was practically the only stock which did not have a bull following. During the general selling toward the close it sagged to 46¼, compared with 49¼, the opening figure.

A factor which was instrumental in advancing the market today was the lack of gold engagements for tomorrow's steamer to Europe. The market for sterling exchange was called easier this week, demand bills selling at $4.87¾. Later they hardened to $4.88 and long bills advanced to $4.84⅞, at which they closed.

[illegible] statement indicates a gain in cash of $1,500,000, exclusive of the probable addition to the figures by government disbursements for interests, the sub-treasury having a debit balance of $1,246,000 at the clearing house on this account. The gold exports this week of $2,234,000 were entirely offset by the movement of money from the interior, the net gain on this account being [illegible]. [illegible] curring to the stock market profit-taking became quite general in the late dealings, and material inroads were made on the highest prices of the day in some stocks. The market closed very animated and irregular.

Important advances were made in many prominent bonds today. The aggregate transactions footed up the exceptional figure of $7,265,000.

[illegible] price.

FAKE HAIR PREPARATIONS

Do Hair No Good, But Often Cause It to Fall Out.

Many hair preparations are "fakes" because they are merely scalp irritants. They often cause a dryness making the hair brittle, and finally lifeless. Dandruff is the cause of all trouble with hair. It is a germ disease. The germ makes cuticle scales as it digs to the root of the hair, where it destroys the hair's vitality, causing the hair to fall out. To cure Dandruff the germ must be killed. Destroy the cause, you remove the effect. Newbro's Herpicide is the only hair preparation that kills the dandruff germ, thereby leaving the hair to grow luxuriantly.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW

Business on the Whole Has Been of a Larger Volume—Spring Business Fair.

New York, Feb. 1.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Business as a whole has been of a larger volume this week. Cold and stormy weather has unquestionably stimulated retail business in boots, shoes, rubber goods and clothing, and this has aided in lightening the stocks carried by retailers as a result of mild weather heretofore. More has been doing, too, in wholesale lines of spring account and business in this respect is classed as fair. Reports are relatively best from the west and south, from which sections advices are that the total January business compares well with a year ago. The contrary is reported from leading eastern markets, however, and the aggregate done here has not thus far equalled expectations. Staple prices are little changed.

Foundry pig iron is lower at all leading markets but on the other hand Bessemer is rather firmer while steel billets actually sell for 25 cents more per ton and there is talk of an advance of $1 per ton. In finished products wire and wire nails are $2 up. The weakness in foundry grades is chargeable to large buyers who, having satisfied their early wants now hold aloof and to reports that stocks are increasing. A sale of 10,000 tons is reported closed at the concessions noted. Export trade in crude forms is practically dead but in finished lines a good business is still doing in railway material, examples of which are shipments of locomotives to France, steel rails to Mexico and South Africa and steel billets to England. Heavy calls for piping are reported from the new oil district in Texas. The labor outlook has been helped by the compromise between the valley furnace operators and their men.

Wheat, including flour, shipments for the week aggregate 3,776,100 bushels, against 4,838,678 bushels last week, and 2,724,937 bushels in the corresponding week of 1900.

From July 1 to date this season, wheat exports are 115,957,683 bushels, against 120,119,835 bushels last season and 150,187,659 bushels in 1898-99.

Failures in the United States for the last week of January number 238 as against 281 last week and 171 in this week a year ago.

Canadian failures for the week number 27 as compared with 34 last week, and 31 in this week a year ago.

R. G. DUN & CO.'S REVIEW

The Past Week in General Business Has Been Without Striking New Features.

New York, Feb. 1.—R. G. Dun and company's review of trade tomorrow will say:

The week in general business has been without striking new feature, but in this respect the outcome has been favorable. Not one of the great industries finds any scarcity of orders for goods and business is done at prices which show a slight tendency to rise except in textiles, which have been affected by the reduction of 10 to 20 per cent in the season's opening prices by the American Woolen company. This cut is expected to be indefinitely continued. Developments in the money market, however, indicate that the drygoods trade is preparing for a season of activity and the new woolen prices are not lower than most buyers expected. There is nothing discouraging in the slight decline in commodity prices from January 1 to February 1 and railroad earnings continue large, increasing 11.1 per cent. for three weeks of January over last year and 26.2 per cent. over 1899.

New York bank clearings for the week gained 48.3 per cent. over 1900, and outside New York the gain is 10.8 per cent. There is a loss of 4 per cent. outside New York for the week compared with 1899, but it is due to the fact that February settlements were increased in that year.

While steel mills have contracts on hand for their output from three to six months ahead, prices nominally rule firm. Few actual advances are recorded, but there is expectation of a higher figure soon for bessemer pig iron while rumors are numerous as to a rise in billets, plates and structural materials. All those lines show a brisk demand. Wire nails and barbed wire were advanced $2 per ton, owing to heavy orders from the west and it is expected that the few mills still idle will shortly resume. Activity in Texas oil fields had an influence on the sales and prices of tanks. Wages are in a fair way to be satisfactorily adjusted at valley furnaces, the reduction agreed upon is less than originally announced. Export orders decreased and the armor plate contract may not go to an American although his terms were the best.

NOT THE ONLY ONE.

There are Hundreds of Colorado Springs People Similarly Situated.

Can there be any stronger proof offered than the evidence of Colorado Springs residents? After you have read the following quietly answer the question.

Mr. J. J. McCarty of 13 South Corona street, foreman of the Gazette, says: "For five or six years I was annoyed with attacks of backache accompanied by slight urinary trouble. I took more than one medicine said to be a sure cure for kidney complaint, and like a great many others in Colorado Springs, I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Jones & Wellington's drug store, expecting the results from their treatment to be as unsatisfactory as those from other preparations I had taken in the past. The benefit received justifies me in saying that anyone suffering from kidney complaint or backache will find in this preparation something which acts differently and more effectively than anything heretofore tried."

STATE MINING

LEADVILLE.

The local coal situation showed no improvement yesterday. All of the roads brought in a little coal yesterday which has been distributed as equitably as possible. The electric light people stated yesterday that they have been using their reserve, being unable to obtain any fresh supply, and that there was now only enough to keep the plant going for a week.

Domestic consumers feel the pressure, and find it difficult to get orders filled promptly. One result of the shortage is the increased demand for wood, and the sawmills which supply this demand are doing a rushing business. No one, at this season desires to be without fuel and many private families in order to economize are using wood in their cook stoves, where it is not necessary to maintain a steady fire.

The coal supply of the Arkansas Valley smelter is running low. This plant requires for its boilers, locomotives and roasters about 150 tons of coal a day. Although some reserve stock is on hand the supply is not heavy, but every effort will be made to keep this important plant from shutting down.

President E. A. Horner of the Pocahontas company, was in Denver yesterday, and it is understood, will see what arrangements can be made for bringing in outside coal if it is required to keep things moving here.

In the last few days the Rio Grande has brought in several cars of Crested Butte coal, together with some from the new mines recently opened at Palisade. This latter property has not become a heavy shipper but the Grand Junction company operating the mine is sending whatever of its product it can spare to this market, and there is a brisk demand for every pound of it.—Herald-Democrat.

LAKE COUNTY.

The long drainage and transportation tunnel from Malta, so long talked of and intended to prove up the great Bimetallic camp and its ore deposits to the deep from Malta to Little Ellen hill, is just now attracting the attention of prominent mining men of the west. Samuel Newhouse who has made a great success of tunneling, recently stated before his departure for Europe that the great Leadville tunnel enterprise was a most commendable proposition and that previous to his entering so heartily in the great tunnel now connecting Clear Creek with Gilpin county at a depth of 2500 feet, and which has cut several hundred veins, he was seriously considering undertaking to build this great Leadville tunnel. Mr. Newhouse is just the man to float such a gigantic enterprise and it may be among the future possibilities that he will raise the funds in time to finance the immense deal. Mr. Newhouse has interested the Duke of York in the great Newhouse tunnel enterprise in Clear Creek county, and after he stored his phenomenal success with his Highland Boy copper mines at Bingham Canon, Utah, he put up $250,000 of his personal funds, with those of the royal foreigners, to complete the great bore in the Little Kingdom of Gilpin. It is to be hoped as he is now warmed up to the great Leadville enterprise that he will present this gilt edge mining opportunity to his influential and wealthy European acquaintances and that they will exercise the good judgment to immediately seize the opportunity to enrich themselves and add years of life to the great and only Leadville district.—Leadville Miner.

CHAFFEE COUNTY.

The contractors for the first 100 feet on the Stockton tunnel at Cleora have completed the work and have secured a second contract for an additional hundred feet. The managers of the company were here last week and closed the deal. On going to Denver they purchased a tram car and rails sufficient to carry the tunnel forward the additional 100 feet. They say the company has plenty of money to prosecute the work and as soon as the tunnel cuts the vein that sinking and drifting in either direction will be begun. The tunnel work is of the most substantial character and is made to stay. The owners are Michigan copper miners and seem to know what they want to do and to be determined to go right on and do it. They say they are prepared to spend $15,000 at once on the proposition.

Ed. Brown and associates who have contracted for the work will work two shifts per day in order to push matters as rapidly as possible.—Salida Mail.

OURAY COUNTY.

The management of the Home Pyritic smelter is very well satisfied at the progress being made toward the completion of the works and commencement of active operations but of necessity there is more or less delay in any such enterprise which will take a short time to overcome, and until then, patience will be the order of the day. Experiments are being made from different grades of lime in order to secure the best quality for fluxing purposes. A large contract has been made for low grade iron ore, in Ironton, from the properties owned by ex-Senator Newman but it will be two weeks before the beds can be opened and the ore teams placed at work in hauling down the ore. W. P. Anderson, the superintendent and metallurgist is pushing the work as rapidly as possible toward completing the smelter in order to be ready as soon as fluxing material is received and a sufficient quantity of ore is ready for treatment. C. A. Shaw of Boston, arrived in the city Tuesday to occupy the position of paymaster of the company here.—Ouray Plaindealer.
